Workplace Safety and Health (OSHA/MSHA)

When our clients face unexpected safety and health crises such as fires, explosions, fatalities or multiple hospitalizations, our battle-tested Catastrophe Response attorneys can quickly step in to help them deal with the myriad issues these disasters create.

In these situations, carefully managing interactions with government agencies, media, employees, and counsel representing injured parties takes on added importance. Our Catastrophe Response Team has guided scores of clients through these stressful and emotionally taxing events and has helped these clients devise effective strategies that enable them to achieve consistently favorable outcomes.

Catastrophes often implicate not only workplace safety and health laws, but also federal and state environmental laws. When these situations arise, members of our Workplace Safety and Health Team routinely collaborate with members of our Environmental Compliance, Enforcement & Permitting Practice Group to deliver seamless representation across disciplines.
