Richard P. McArdle is a partner with Seyfarth Shaw LLP, the leading national employment and labor law firm. Mr. McArdle defends employers against class and other severe employment discrimination and wage & hour lawsuits throughout the United States.

Mr. McArdle's primary focus is defending employers in class and complex employment litigation cases. His experience in these high impact cases includes defending against allegations of race, gender, age, disability and national origin discrimination, as well as retaliation and wage & hour matters. Among his many cases, he recently defeated class certification in a high profile class action alleging race discrimination involving pay and promotions, and a breach of contract action involving 9,000 independent insurance agents. He also won early dismissal of a class action lawsuit alleging wrongful discharge under Ohio and California law, which saved his client hundreds of thousands of dollars in legal fees and damages.

Mr. McArdle has also defended employers in large plant shutdown and strike cases, and he recently won dismissal of all 51 EEOC charges stemming from a workplace strike.

Mr. McArdle designs and implements highly effective and complex litigation strategies, and manages small and large defense teams as they execute specific tasks toward victory.

Mr. McArdle was recently quoted in Employment Law 360 after obtaining a class action victory, and co-authored a chapter on Employment Contracts in the Illinois Institute of Continuing Legal Education's publication: Conducting the Employment Practices Audit, and previously served as a contributing editor for the Bureau of National Affairs' publication, Employment Discrimination Law, 4th ed. Mr. McArdle has been selected as an Illinois Super Lawyer multiple times, and co-authored an article for the American Bar Association's annual newsletter for the Equal Employment Opportunity Committee. Mr. McArdle lectures regularly on employment discrimination and litigation prevention to employment groups, CEOs, and Human Resource representatives. By invitation from the Canadian Consulate's office in the U.S., Mr. McArdle spoke to a group of Canadian employers doing business in the U.S. concerning employment and labor laws and responding to inquiries from the various government agencies that enforce such laws.
