SAFE RETURN:
COVID-19 Return to Work Training

With millions of employees returning to worksites across the country, providing practical training and guidance on how to protect co-workers and others is rapidly becoming a critical necessity, given the potential reach and impact of COVID-19.

Dozens of state and local requirements contain returning employee obligations that will ensure their safe reintegration.

Moreover, a number of state and local governments already explicitly mandate the deployment of return-to-work training.

In response, and in support of employers in every industry, Seyfarth at Work, in partnership with Seyfarth, is launching an interactive online program entitled, "SAFE RETURN: COVID-19 Return to Work Training." This COVID-19-focused return to work program enables you to share best safety practices as well as simple, practical strategies that all employees can utilize to safely re-enter and re-engage with your workplace.
