Fourth Annual Summit on

Legal and Financial Strategies for Doing Business in China

Dear Executive,

Some say China, where capitalism is a little over a decade old, is at the earliest stages of the greatest industrial revolution of all time. If your company is already in China, it's imperative you keep up with current legal, tax and financial issues. If you are not yet involved with China, can you afford to wait any longer to learn how to tap the opportunities that await you and/or your company in this vast land?

Atlas Information Group, after offering successful programs on doing business in China in New York, Chicago, Philadelphia and San Francisco, is proud to announce its 2006 Legal and Financial Strategies for Doing Business in China. We have assembled an experienced international faculty to address a variety of important subjects with which you must be familiar to successfully guide your client or business through the myriad opportunities and challenges of doing business in China. You will learn how to deal constructively and innovatively with legal and business issues that exist today.

Attend this conference and learn from an international panel of leading experts and meet other professionals grappling with similar issues. Leave knowing how to structure and do business in China successfully and profitably. Obtain a valuable course reference handbook, plus additional handout materials. Get answers to your most critical questions and obtain valuable networking contacts. You cannot afford to miss this event, so register today. We look forward to seeing you in New York in November.

Yours truly conference cochairs,

William Dodson
