New Illinois Law Requires State to Notify of Off-Site Releases and Gives State Controversial Authority to Compel Clean-ups

Thursday, September 8, 2005
12:00 p.m. – 1:00 p.m. CDT

On July 27th, Governor Blagojevich signed into a law a significant amendment affecting virtually all present and past owners, lessees, and users of property at which an environmental release has occurred. The new law requires the Illinois Environmental Protection Agency to notify off-site property owners if contamination from a release extends beyond the property line and grants IEPA broad – and controversial – authority to compel the remediation of off-site clean-ups. Please join us on September 8th for a Webcast presentation on the potential impacts of this new law.

Topics Covered Include:

- Notification of Contamination
- Notification of Enforcement or Removal Actions
- Administrative Order Authority - New Section 22.2d of the Illinois Environmental Protection Act

Please register online at www.seyfarth.com/events. Participation is free but prior registration is required. Detailed instructions will be e-mailed to all registrants two days prior to the event.
