COMMIT TO A SELF-CARE PRACTICE

WHAT

This page will help you to identify self-care strategies to use when you're feeling stressed, tired, or cranky – moments where you need to rest and restore.

WHY

Self-care is so rewarding! Practicing self-care on a daily basis will enable you to push your mind, body, and spirit into more of a restorative state, which is key for mental and physical health.

HOW

Use this page as a checklist to remind yourself to engage in self-care practices on a daily, weekly, and monthly basis. Remember, it takes daily practice for about a month to form the beginning of a habit – be consistent to see changes in your life!

Self-care is the practice of taking active steps to nurture your well-being and happiness. Self-care is particularly important to prevent stress, and during moments of stress. It's any activity that you deliberately do in order to take care of your mind, body, and spirit.

Self-care falls into four areas:

Physical self-care: taking care of your physical body (e.g. eating healthily, exercising regularly, getting good sleeps)

Emotional self-care: being true to your emotions (e.g. recognizing and honoring how you're feeling)

Spiritual self-care: tuning in and caring for your inner self and spirit (e.g. meditating, creating a gratitude journal)

Workplace self-care: creating habits at work that give you moments of joy and rest (e.g. going for a walk at lunch, listening to music while working)

People often ask me how I'm able to keep healthy with everything on my plate and my answer always ties back to self-care! I've realized that in order to be my best, I have to maintain daily/weekly/monthly self-care practices. For me, this includes working out two to four times a week, going to psychotherapy once a month, reciting daily positive affirmations and surrounding myself with people who lift my spirit up.

Now it's your turn! Identify two self-care strategies that you'll practice:

DAILY

- 1.
- 2.

WEEKLY

- 1.
- 2.

MONTHLY

- 1.
- 2.

MY STORY

I didn't always feel empowered to be an unapologetic, fiercely authentic person. While I was successful and living the "corporate dream" as a lawyer in my early career, I had a realization that the person I was in my day-to-day life bore little resemblance to my true self. After much soul-searching, I decided I needed to transform my life. I completed my MBA, left my job and launched my own business. Most importantly, I committed to living as authentically as possible.

I've now presented in front of thousands of leaders around the world to inspire them to be more inclusive, and to encourage those who have experienced oppression to be more authentic and empowered. I have also dedicated my life to helping people to cultivate self-love so that they can live their best with confidence. And I want the same for you. In particular, I want you to embrace what makes you different and unique. I want you to shine!
