House Passes Labor Appropriations Bill. Yesterday, the House passed the Departments of Labor, Health and Human Services, and Education, and Related Agencies Appropriations Act, 2020 (H.R. 2740). As passed, the bill includes a 10% increase for the Department of Labor's budget, with $660.9 million allocated to OSHA and $298.1 million allocated to the Wage & Hour Division. Both figures would represent sizable increases for those agencies. Of course, the bill must be passed by the Senate and signed by the President before the appropriations take hold, so we are still quite a bit away from a final agreement on funding these agencies.

And Includes a Rider for OSHA. As part of the process to pass H.R. 2740, Rep. Bobby Scott (D-VA), Chair of the Education & Labor Committee, offered an amendment to the bill which would prevent any funds under the bill to be used to finalize or implement the proposed rule entitled "Occupational Exposure to Beryllium and Beryllium Compounds in Construction and Shipyard Sectors." The appropriations rider was successful, but, like the appropriations bill itself, it faces a steep uphill climb as it proceeds through the legislative process.

Rolling in Rayburn: House Ed & Labor Continues Moving Its Agenda. Rep. Scott's committee continues to push forward in implementing its agenda, with a busy hearing schedule over the next week. Today, the Subcommittee on Workforce Protections held a hearing titled "Breathless and Betrayed: What is MSHA Doing to Protect Miners from the Resurgence of Black Lung Disease?" Next week, subcommittees will hold hearings on the Job Corps Program and public sector unions, while the full committee will address "Do No Harm: Examining the Misapplication of the Religious Freedom Restoration Act."

H-2A Electronic Posting Rule to OMB. In the Spring 2019 Regulatory Agenda, DOL targeted June for its final rule amending the regulations regarding the H-2A program to eliminate print newspaper advertisements and require a 14-day online posting. Earlier this week, DOL sent the final rule to OIRA at the White House's Office of Management and Budget, which is one of the final steps before a rule gets published in the Federal Register. We'll keep you updated when the final rule makes its appearance in the Federal Register.

New York Passes Sweeping New Workplace Sexual Harassment Law. With unanimous support in the state Senate and light opposition in the state Assembly, the New York legislature passed legislation to increase protections against sexual harassment in the workplace. The legislation addresses a wide variety of issues, including expanding coverage to all employers in the state; eliminating the Farragher/Ellerth affirmative defense; prohibiting nondisclosure agreements related to discrimination; prohibiting mandatory arbitration clauses related to discrimination; requiring employers to provide employees notice of their sexual harassment prevention training program in writing in English and in employees' primary languages; extending the statute of limitations for claims resulting from unlawful or discriminatory practices constituting sexual harassment to three years; and increasing remedies and penalties.

Massachusetts Family and Medical Leave Law Sees Extensions. Last week, Governor Baker signed legislation officially delaying the start of the payroll deductions for the Massachusetts Paid Family and Medical Leave (PFML) program by three months (October 1, 2019). The Department of Family and Medical Leave (DFML) extended the deadline for distributing the mandatory PFML notice to workers September 30, 2019. The DFML followed that up with final regulations and template notices. For more on these developments, check out Seyfarth's Client Alerts here and here.
